6 Persons Die In Explosion At Allentown, Pa.

Gas Leak Ignites
In Hotel Basement;
23 Persons Injured

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A darkroom technician who wanted to be a newspaper photographer stopped on his way home from work to take pictures of a gas main explosion. Minutes later, he and five other curious spectators lost their lives in a second blast.

Lester S. Kraft Jr., 29, a camera bug hired last September by the Allentown Call-Chronicle, was driving home late Saturday night after work. As he reached the outskirts of this southeastern Pennsylvania city, he saw a huge jet of flaming gas shoot up through the street paving from a broken main.

Ran to Porch

He parked and ran with his camera to the front porch of the 120-year-old Mountainville Hotel, a good spot from which to see the spectacular fire. Others also had gathered on the porch, or near it, to watch.

Minutes later the second explosion ripped the building apart. Tons of brick and stone buried the six victims. Twenty-three others were injured, two critically.

The second blast was followed by a series of lesser explosions as leaking gas ignited in the streets around the hotel.

The operators of the hotel, actually a tavern with living quarters on the second floor, were Mr. and Mrs. George Andresack. Mrs. Andresack's timely warning to some 50 patrons probably kept the death toll down.

"I went to the cellar door after I smelled gas and when I opened it, the odor was very heavy," she said.

"I yelled to the patrons to put out their cigarettes and get out because I was afraid of an explosion."

Moments after the bar patrons left, the hotel was destroyed.

In addition to Kraft, the dead were William Gruber and Perry Miller, both 16, who had just left a nearby roller skating rink; William MacLean; Walter Leitger, 7, and Maynard Haebner, 39, all of Allentown.

850 Attend High School Vesper Service

Under the direction of F. Edwin Miller, the vocal department of the Senior High School presented the 13th annual Christmas vesper service in the school gymnasium Sunday afternoon.

An audience of 850 enthusiastically received the 24 numbers presented by the Robed Choir, the Mixed Chorus and the Girls Chorus.

Outstanding performances were given by Barbara Ford, who sang the solo part of a Louisiana folk song, "O Mary, Where is Your Baby?" and Bonnie Getz and Carol Hasson, soloists for "Lullaby on Christmas Eve," by F. M. Christensen.

The Hallelujah Chorus from The Messiah closed the program. Accompanists were Louise Oswald, Robed Choir; Ruth Ann Bennett, Mixed Chorus; and Bonnie Minth, Girls Chorus.

Hearings Set For Former Policemen

LISBON — A hearing on a motion for a new trial in the criminal case of Ira Cunningham, 50, and Jerry Raimond, 31, former East Liverpool policemen indicted Nov. 21 for the breaking and entering of Burbick's Hardware Store, March 2, 1952, will be held before Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard Friday at 11 a. m. according to Norman Ward, assignment commissioner.

A hearing for a new trial for Louis (Mike) Stutler, 35, former East Liverpool policeman convicted of burglary of the same store June 10, 1954, will be held before Judge Buzzard Tuesday, Dec. 23 at 1 p. m.

Stutler was convicted last Thursday.

Shoppers In Earnest Now

Crowds Swarm Salem
Stores For Gifts

There was no mistake about it in Salem Saturday. The Christmas shopping season had begun.

The business district was crowded with holiday shoppers and merchants generally reported their best day so far.

Herbert Gordon, chairman of the Retail Merchants Division, commented, "the Christmas start is really on in earnest," and he amplified his remarks by saying that a survey of many stores showed that most of them did a brisk business Saturday.

Salem stores are open tonight until 9. Late hours to accommodate holiday gift seekers will be observed by the stores Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week and also next Monday and Tuesday. Stores also will be open all day Wednesday this week and next.

Santa's House is a popular spot with the children during the holiday season. A number of youngsters are having their pictures taken with the bearded gentleman. The Youth Center is staffing Santa's headquarters several doors west of the State theater.

Shoppers came from Salem and many of the surrounding communities, merchants reported. Parking lots were nearly full, most of the time but there was still ample parking space in metered street stalls and even on close in streets which are not metered.

Stores report a goodly supply of merchandise but their advice to the shopper is to buy early and avoid the last-minute rush that appears to be inevitable.

Eisenhower's '59 Budget Set For Congress

President Hopes
To Lower Spending
Next Fiscal Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower puts before Republican congressional leaders today a program expected to call for around 80 billion dollars in spending next year.

Eisenhower was ready to preview domestic proposals which may include some controversial civil rights suggestions.

Chief interest among the GOP congressional leaders centered on how successful the President has been in efforts to hold down his budget for the next fiscal year in the face of mounting military outlays and an anticipated deficit of about 12 billion dollars this year.

Federal spending during this fiscal year is estimated at about $79,200,000,000, with about 41 billion of that going for defense.

Eisenhower has made the budget one of the top issues of the approaching Congress, with its increased Democratic majorities. He did so with his postelection criticism of Democratic "spenders" he said were elected because the voters were apathetic on this issue.

Sharpened Issue

GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn sharpened the issue with a weekend statement listing proposals made by the Democratic Advisory Council, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the AFL-CIO and Americans for Democratic Action. Alcorn said these would boost the budget to more than 100 billion dollars if enacted.

"The Democrats have wasted no time in confirming the Republican campaign statement that an avalanche of spending proposals would follow if the radical wing of the party succeeded in electing its many candidates," Alcorn said.

On the other hand, Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said his party had received in the election "a clear and unmistakable mandate for positive and progressive action to put America once again on the road to progress and expansion."

Hitting the same theme today, he told the Women's National Democratic Club in a prepared speech: "... I would rather be a 'spender' for vital economic expansion than a 'shrinker' or a 'strangler' of a virile nation's productive power, as the Eisenhower-Nixon administration has been."

East Liverpool Boy Injured In Mishap

A 12-year-old boy was slightly injured and one driver was arrested over the weekend in three traffic mishaps investigated by the state highway patrolmen.

Thomas Baker of East Liverpool received abrasions of the left eye and bruises of the left leg when the sled he was riding coasted to the path of a car in Glenmoor at 2 p. m. Sunday.

The car was driven by Roy Post, 20, of RD 2, Lisbon.

The boy was not treated.

Larry Gowin of Doylestown was cited for traveling left of center after his car sideswiped an auto operated by Eldon Harner, 32, of Akron on Rt. 14, two miles north of Salem at 7:50 p. m. Saturday.

No one was hurt in a collision of cars driven by Paul Barth, 56, of RD 1, Columbiana and Thomas Cook, 58, of RD 2, Columbiana on Rt. 7, one-half mile north of Rogers, at 10:15 p. m. Sunday.

Pope John Confirms Choices

2 U.S. Archbishops Become Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII today formally elevated the archbishops of Philadelphia and Boston and 21 other Roman Catholic prelates to the rank of cardinal.

Twenty-three of the 51 other prelates of the church, meeting in secret consistory at the Vatican, gave their silent assent to the Pope's action, confirming the choices he had announced Nov. 17. The pontiff, himself crowned supreme ruler of the church only last month, increased the membership of the Sacred College to 74 and gave the world's half-billion members of the church their broadest representation ever in the high senate body.

Broke Limit of 70

Elevation of the new cardinals broke the limit of 70 set for the college by Pope Sixtus in 1586.

In his address to the Sacred College telling of his choices, the pontiff called particular attention to the persecution of Catholics by the Communist regime in China. Missionaries have been expelled and many archbishops and bishops, "full of zeal and courage, are in prison, or restricted or impeded in the free exercise of their pastoral ministry," he said.

"The clergy and faithful have become the target of blandishments, menaces, physical and moral tortures," the Pope continued, in order to force them "to break the bond of obedience and love which links them with the See of Peter."

"Unfortunately," he went on, "we have to declare with sorrow that there are not wanting some who, fearing the orders of men more than the sacred judgment of God, have so far yielded to the commands of persecutors as to accept sacrilegious episcopal consecration from which no power of jurisdiction can be derived since it was conferred without the mandate of the Holy See."

Pope John asked the Catholic bishops of the world to arrange for "public occasions of prayer and penance" to beseech God to "enlighten the minds of those who are going astray" and to "give strength or will" to all the Catholics of China.

After the consistory, papal messengers went out from the Vatican to notify the new cardinals officially of their elevation.

The two Americans, Richard James Cushing, 66, of Boston, and John F. O'Hara, 70, Philadelphia received the word at the North American Pontifical College, high on Rome's Janiculum Hill. Also notified with them was Amleto Cicognani, whose elevation ended his 26-year tenure as apostolic delegate to the United States.

The new cardinals will receive their red birettas—square-shaped, close-fitting hats and a symbol of office—at a semipublic consistory in the Vatican Wednesday.

On Thursday will come the Allies Turn to Critical Disputes Within Alliance

West Turns Down
Red Plan to Give
Control to Germans

PARIS (AP) — Reassured that the Western Big Three will stand fast against Soviet pressure on West Berlin, the North Atlantic Allies turned today to critical disputes within the alliance.

The agreement Sunday on Berlin by the foreign ministers of Britain, France and the United States led off a week of formal conferences vital to Western Europe's future.

A communique said the Big Three foreign ministers "reaffirmed the determination of their governments to maintain their position and their rights with respect to Berlin, including the right of free access."

Rejected Soviet Proposal

The statement rejected the Soviet proposal to give the East German Communist regime control of Allied traffic with West Berlin. In effect, the ministers ruled out suggestions that the West deal with the East Germans as agents of the Russians.

The three ministers — U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd — gave no indication of what counterproposals they would make in reply to the Soviet note of Nov. 27.

But they said they were agreed on the basic issues to be covered in their replies. They said they would consult with the other NATO allies in the NATO Council meeting beginning Tuesday

Cold Holding Icy Grip On Most of Nation

BULLETIN

Junior High School students were dismissed for the day at noon today when the heating system in the building broke down.

December's spell of severe cold weather still clutched the Eastern two-thirds of the nation today. There appeared little or no general relief immediately.

In Salem early this morning the mercury dipped to slightly below zero but at the city sewage treatment plant northwest of town it was even colder. Attendees there said plan gauges showed a low of 12 below. It was near zero at 8 a. m.

The expected low tonight will be around five above.

The steady stream of arctic air from Canada kept pushing into the midlands and spreading south and eastward, dipping into the Gulf region. Adding to the unseasonable cold was heavy snow throughout the area, even in sections of the Southeast.

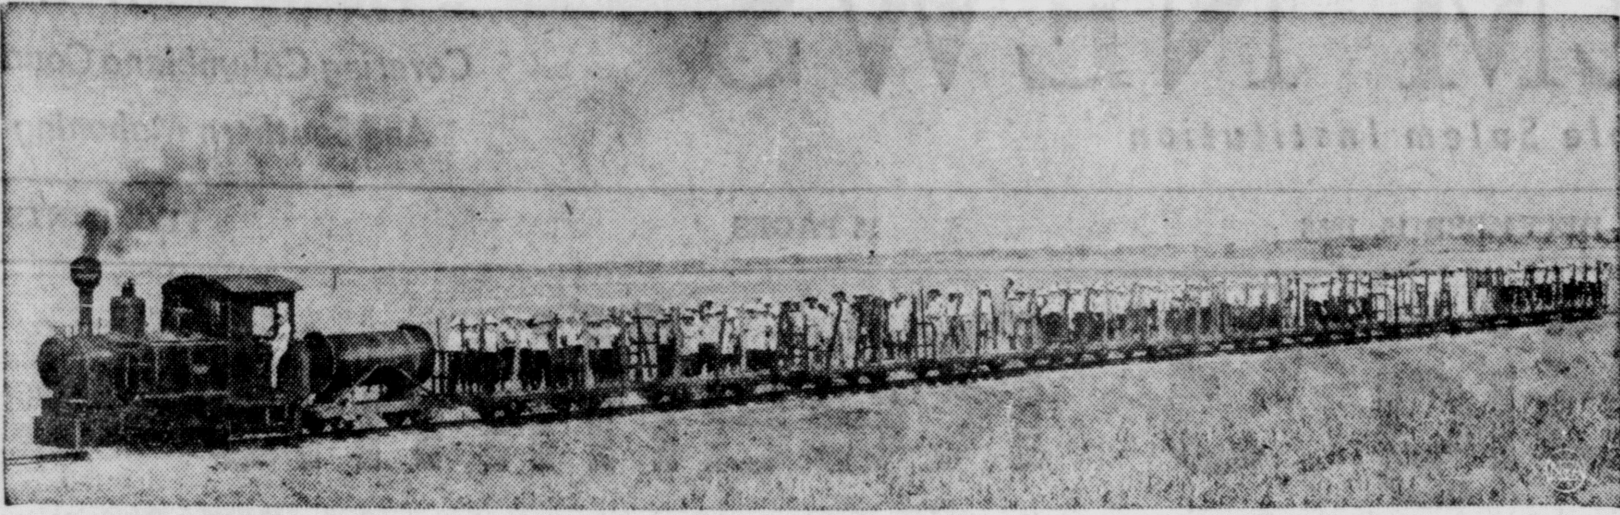

The cold and snow has plagued the Midwest for more than a week, but winter doesn't officially start until next Monday.

Chicago, like other Midwest cities, has had zero or below zero temperatures six times since the start of the cold wave. It was 7 early today, with lower marks in suburban areas.

The coldest weather was confined to the upper and middle Mississippi Valley and western sections of the Great Lakes region. Temperatures were mostly below zero and as low as 10 to 15 below in many places.

It was zero as far south as Fayetteville, Ark., as the icy air knifed into the South.

Defendant Imprisoned on Tax Charge

Pacifist Minister's Lawyers Ponder Appeal Problems

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two lawyers have one more week to decide the frustrating problem of whether to fight the conviction of a stubborn pacifist minister.

The Rev. Maurice F. McCrackin says he doesn't want an appeal on his conviction on a charge of ignoring a summons to an income tax conference.

His two court-appointed attorneys, convinced that the pastor was wrongly convicted, aren't sure what the law allows them to do.

"We have searched and have found no precedent covering our problem," said Fred Dewey, professor of law at the University of Cincinnati.

He said he and Theodore M. Perry, the other court-appointed attorney, think they could file for a new trial.

Dewey said, "We feel the court erred in making remarks about taxes and other matters that were not in evidence and about which we were forbidden by the judge to touch upon."

Judge John H. Druffel presided at the one-day trial last Friday in U. S. District Court.

Before sentencing the minister to six months in prison and a $250 fine, the judge denounced him for his stand against paying income taxes because they help pay for war weapons.

Dewey said, "We think we have good grounds for an appeal," but he said the Rev. Mr. McCrackin's complete lack of cooperation with his attorneys "may present difficulties."

He said testimony failed to show the Internal Revenue Service agent who issued the summons had the authority to do so.

From his jail cell, the Rev. Mr. McCrackin said Saturday, "from the start I have said that this is not a legal battle."

"This is a moral struggle. It is a struggle against the evil of war and the evil of the involvement of the courts in the collection of funds for this evil."

"I have never denied that I ignored the summons."

"I don't want this fought through on a technical point as to whether the summons was properly issued, but on the point that a government does not have the right to coerce the conscience of its citizens."

The minister said he hopes to continue as pastor of the Presbyterian-Episcopal church here and as director of its neighborhood house.

Bishop Henry Wise Hobson of the Episcopal Diocese had indicated he would like the controversial minister dropped as the house director, but not as pastor.

4-H Club Will Hold Yule Party at YWCA

The Mahoning County 4-H Junior Leadership Club will hold a Christmas party at 8 p.m. Monday at the YWCA here, Mary Jane Matthews, general chairman of the program, announces.

Each member is asked to bring a 50 cent gift for exchange. Myron Agnew will show and discuss colored slides taken at the 1958 Canfield fair. There will be folk and round dancing followed by refreshments. Ralph Schrock will be the caller. Decorations will be handled by a committee headed by Ronnie Kenreich.

Club advisors are Barbara Razo of Springfield Township and Robert Witmer of Green Township.

Program Scheduled By Perry Grangers

Perry Grange will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. for its annual Christmas program.

There will be no gift exchange for the subordinates, but there will be a collection of canned goods or fresh vegetables to be given to the Home for the Aged.

Juveniles will have a Christmas tree ornament exchange. The lunch will be served by Mrs. Robert Wilde and Mrs. Glenn Bates.

OVERCOME BY CAR FUMES

HARTSVILLE, S. C. (AP) — Three Ohioans who were overcome by carbon monoxide as their car engine idled in a long line of traffic have been released from the hospital. Released Sunday were Kenneth Zussall of Canton, Donald E. Carter of Shreve (Wayne County) and Faye McFellien of Wooster. They and Chester Carter and James Daugherty, both of Shreve, were driving to Florida to look for work when the accident happened Saturday.

Reformed Juvenile Gang 'Making Good'

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The King Cobras, who reformed publicly 10 months ago, have made it stick.

They're the juvenile gang members who gave a "restitution dinner" last February after some of them took part in a grocery burglary.

The dinner netted $133.08 to more than repay the grocer. A judge gave them another chance.

"They're making good," said James L. White, executive director of Neighborhood House, Inc., the social service agency that helped them with the public repayment dinner.

"Not one boy has been in trouble with the law since."

The King Cobras gang has been dissolved and the youths have gone separate ways.

The answer, says White, was "redirection."

"Everyone has weaknesses—but he has strengths too. What we have done is built on their strengths."

Two of the boys organized a dance band. Several others made athletic teams at their schools. Another has been elected to his school's student council.

POWER PLANT

Your future and the future of America will be shaped by the kind of power generated in the college classroom. Never has our need for great ideas been so pressing as it is today.

Yet the very core of our brainpower plant—the college classroom—is seriously threatened. For a depressingly low salary scale is driving gifted teachers into other fields. And crowded classroom conditions are steadily growing worse.

It's time to put a stop to this nonsense. Won't you help the college of your choice now? Help it keep a qualified faculty and expand its facilities. The returns will be greater than you think.

'Brinkmanship' Works Both Ways

There is no comfort for the millions whose lives would be lost and upset by a war over the unsettled issue of Berlin in repeating what is obviously true—that no one wants war to happen.

Premier Khrushchev doesn't want it to happen any more than President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain, or Charles de Gaulle of France. Everybody concerned with the issue of Berlin is hoping for a solution to the problem that will avert violence.

The course of the trouble is delay. The issue of Berlin has been permitted to hang fire for lack of the statesmanship that could have closed it long before this. All that Premier Khrushchev has done is to force the issue, as he could have been expected to do.

The Soviet Union has the strongest motive to force the issue. Berlin is in East Germany, not in West Germany. Had the situation been reversed at the close of World War II and an outpost of Soviet influence been set up in the Allied zone of occupation, the Western Allies would have had the same motive to force a settlement.

In 1955, they were successful in making an agreement with the Soviet Union to demilitarize Austria. It was the hope at that time that a similar agreement might be reached to demilitarize and unite Germany, but the hope was shattered by a collision between the conflicting aims of the Kremlin and the Western Allies.

The Kremlin wants to eliminate the threat of Germany militarism to Russian security. It wants to exert control over German policy, because it fears a resurgence of German power to wage war.

The Western Allies, on the other hand, are interested in the possibility of making Germany—all of Germany, if possible, and West Germany in any event a self-sufficient "buffer state" between Russia and themselves. These conflicting aims collided in 1955. They are colliding again now. They will collide until and unless a settlement is reached.

Premier Khrushchev is hopeful that he can speed a settlement by threatening to force the Western Allies out of their outpost in West Berlin. The Western Allies are hopeful they can forestall Khrushchev's version of a settlement and aid their own version by depending the status quo.

They have the disadvantage in their brinkmanship of defending what they, themselves, have acknowledged must be corrected against Premier Khrushchev, whose brinkmanship consists of demanding a correction.

Alabama Takes the Fifth

In their hot resentment of any federal investigation of election practices, Alabamians blocking the Civil Rights Commission are convicting themselves of the practices of which they have been accused.

They are doing, in effect, what individuals do when they stand on the Fifth Amendment to keep from incriminating themselves by answering questions in a public investigation or a court proceeding. They are testifying mutely that the only way they can avoid incrimination is to conceal the facts about themselves.

It can only be hoped by those who are trying to compose the deep and significant differences that have arisen between the federal government and the recalcitrant states in the civil rights issue that the issue may be clearly understood.

It concerns the ability of the United States to continue as a federation of states. There is vastly more to it than a tiff between individuals and sectional blocs.

In the mid-19th century, the same issue erupted into one of history's bloodiest wars. In the mid-20th century, it has erupted into a naked threat to the American dream of a federation of states.

Congress has an undeniable right to be concerned about the election practices of the states. Irregularities in some states have been a long-standing denial of the principle and practice of representation in the House of Representatives, as well as a denial of the civil rights of U.S. citizens. The continued existence of the federal government is at stake.

Every detail of the danger, it must be remembered, was foreseen and discussed by the framers of the Constitution. Though they did not foresee the issue over slavery and the evolution of the two-party system in all parts of the nation, except the irreconcilable Southern states, they did foresee that over-zealous defenders of states' rights would try tirelessly to scuttle the federal control over elections that was written into the Constitution to prevent that very thing.

They reasoned that the federal government had to reserve the right to enforce election standards, or become the victim of local and state prejudices. That is precisely what is threatened. And that is the chilling significance of over resistance to a federal agency.

Once Over

Lo, the poor commuter! He expects little and gets it. His life is a round of depot-lot parking troubles, train delays, changed schedules, fast shaving, swift breakfasts, late dinners and constant worry over this question: If I am an hour late getting to work and only a half hour late getting home am I breaking even?

All over the country railroads are crying "Get lost" to the commuter.

ICC member says that in a few years a railroad that carries any passengers will be rare.

A New York commuter is a special breed requiring ability to do the four-minute mile, endure the quickie Grand Central cocktail and become accustomed to the abrupt notice "Everybody off. This train is out of order." He leaves each morning full of misgivings and gets home at night in worse shape than a combat trooper who has crossed No Man's Land in both directions on a pogo stick.

HIS ANGUISH is now increased by the railroad cry of "Who wants you?" For an encore he settles for his wife's tearful, "Why did we leave the big city and move out into the country? We should of stood in bedlam. It's noisier but not so heartbreaking." Lackawanna, Lehigh and New Haven roads now threaten to dump commuters soon if they don't get help from federal, state and city governments. Hurrying to the 7:03 the commuter moans:

Once the railroads dearly loved me—For my trade they went quite wild; Now it's "Scram!" they cry so loudly, "You are just a problem child."

IT'S GETTING SO the fireman says to the engineer "There's some commuters ahead. Put on speed and pretend you don't see 'em." Commuter is late to work, late geting home, late realizing he lives too far from his job and late appreciating the fact that the public endures pouring millions of dollars into thruways to steal business from rail roads but is slow to shed a tear for the rail lines.

He moved to the suburbs to get life among birds and bees but got the "bird" in higher assessments, higher taxes, flooded cellars and probably a letter from a town manager saying "Thank you for calling your swamped home to my attention. So what?"

But, at that, his plight is no worse than the railroad's. They are in the "When A Feller Needs A Friend" situation. The locomotive whistle is a cry for help.

Labor Day Is Better

The thought many of us give in passing to baseball managers who bow out at the close of a losing season needs to be given now to losing football coaches who have been told to look for new connections.

All things considered football coaches are more to be thought of in passing than baseball managers. For the managers, Labor Day usually brings the ax, or the premonition of the axing. But for the coaches, the blow falls in time for Christmas. Not many football coaches are farsighted enough to have long-running contracts that pay them for not working—some, but not many.

They are in a precarious business. A half-back pulls a ligament, a lineman breaks a clavicle, a signal caller pulls a rock, and they must bear up under the calumny and effigy-hanging of millions who were promised bread and circuses and will not take character-building as a substitute.

Here and there, a heavenly situation has been created that gives a coach security whether he wins or loses, which is more than baseball has been able to do. But to offset this, there is the grisly certainty that the coach who is going to be severed from his prestige and prerogatives will be severed just before Christmas. It is like shooting Santa Claus in cold blood.

When a girl's face is her fortune she shouldn't let late hours make it overdrawn.

Judging from those we've had this year, don't eat chestnuts in the dark.

Too Hot for Santa

Deep South Off Limits

By RALPH MCGILL

Certain political facts of life now are made entirely clear.

No presidential candidate in 1960 will, in any way, seek Deep South votes.

Top-heavy majorities of Northern and Western democrats on the national committee emphatically proclaimed the party's determination to throw its weight behind effective enforcement of constitution of interpretations by the Supreme Court in meetings held during the recent weekend.

The language used by the committee in its resolution was considerably stronger than that of the 1956 Democratic platform. Even more illustrative of this hardening of attitude by Western and Northern Democrats was the complete lack of any disposition to compromise with the massive resistance to the court's constitutional interpretations.

The resolution, among other things, commended National Chairman Paul Butler for his "forthright utterances" on civil rights issues.

A DAY LATER the National Democratic Advisory Council met and made public its recommendations. Its findings are in no way a part of those of the party's official business. But its members, headed by former President Harry S. Truman, without question reflect majority opinion among a majority of the influential party leaders, particularly those in key or pivotal states.

The urgent recommendation of this advisory council was for federal legislation to implement the court's constitutional decisions, and a call on all states to do all that is necessary to save public education.

This sets the pattern for the national conventions of 1960 and the campaigns in the autumn of that year.

The Republicans some time ago crossed this same political rubicon.

The nominees of the Republican and Democratic parties will assert they are determined that every American citizen is entitled to the same rights and privileges as every other American and that necessary legislation shall be provided to assure this status.

They will then say they welcome the votes of all persons, North, South, East and West, who so believe.

But there will be no gesture of appeasement of the extreme Deep South position on anti-civil rights and anti-Supreme Court.

This is a practical political decision. Like all such conclusions, it is based on reality. No aspiring candidate, of either party, believes he can be nominated or elected if his position in any way waters down equality in citizenship rights.

The OPEN HOSTILITY and defiance of the Federal Commission on Civil Rights by state officials in Alabama was a factor in the hardening of opinion in this field.

It is an odd thing how those who seem most loudly to detest Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, for example, work so hard to enable him to say, "I told you so."

At any rate, these are the present political realities. They will further inflame those whose minds long ago closed to reason and moderation. They will the more disturb those who honestly and honorably love the South and know its future must be apart of the nation's.

The country will be harmed by such a contest, which in time can have but one result. But damage to the South will be greater, both materially and spiritually.

The Civil War of 1861-65 was one only a few extremists wanted. The people did not wish it, and they believed their leaders who told them their policy of secession would prevent war.

It has been said that if 10 extremists on each side could have been hanged, even as late as 1860, there would have been no conflict. It is a statement not too greatly exaggerated.

Now, in 1958, there is yet time to avoid the chaos and the dangers but again it appears that extremists have drowned out the voice of reason.

And the Deep South, most unhappily, again has been maneuvered by its leadership into a position of being on the wrong side of a moral question as it was in defending slavery in 1860.

Once again there is a hard and fast coalition of the West and North in defense of the Union and its processes of law, which provide civil rights to all citizens.

This is the essence of the classic Greek tragedy and there is no lightness in it.

Limits on Subpoena

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Alabama Officials Are Within Their Rights

Alabama state officials are well within their rights in declining to recognize a blanket subpoena to sought by the U. S. Civil Rights Commission.

President Eisenhower made an unfortunate mistake when he was misled into prejudging the case at his news conference. He said that failure to produce the records was "reprehensible." He added that it was a "refusal to comply with the basic laws of the land."

The question of what is or is not the "law of the land" in answering a subpoena is by no means clear. Actually, the President's own attorney general in recent weeks has declined to furnish certain records which a Senate committee has been trying to get in its crusade for "freedom of information" in the executive branch of the government. Was this refusal a violation of the "law of the land?"

SENATOR McCarthy of Wisconsin was denied access to records in the Defense Department when he tried to compel testimony on "who promoted Peress."

Again and again the question of the scope of a subpoena has been before the courts. The Supreme Court of the United States has at one time described the subpoena power of Congress as not valid when a committee engages in a "fishing expedition."

The courts generally have insisted that, when a subpoena is issued, it must specify certain records, and not be merely a blanket demand for records irrespective of their relevancy to the case.

VOTING IS a state matter, especially eligibility. In Georgia, they vote at 18 years of age—in other states at 21.

The Alabama State officials contend that there are no laws on the Alabama statute books which deny anyone the right to vote on account of race or color. The question turns entirely on the judgment and efficiency of the local registrars and it is argued that their records are part of the state judicial process.

Also, is the Civil Rights Commission an arm of Congress or of the executive branch of the government? This has to be settled in a court proceeding.

Most of the recent rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States about the wrongful uses of subpoena power protect Communists and persons with Communist associations who have refused to answer questions of a congressional committee. Thus, in the so-called "Watkins Case," the Supreme Court of the United States, in an opinion rendered by Chief Justice Warren, said:

"There is no general authority to expose the private affairs of individuals without justification in terms of the functions of the Congress. This was freely conceded by the solicitor general in his argument of this case, nor is the Congress a law enforcement or trial agency."

"These are functions of the executive and judicial departments of government. No inquiry is an end in itself; it must be related to and in furtherance of a legitimate task of the Congress."

The Supreme Court stated, moreover, in the Watkins Case that Congress cannot constitute itself an inquisitorial body demanding through the subpoena power that a witness answer questions which invade his privacy.

Certainly states have the same rights of official privacy as individuals have recently claimed in the Communist cases.

IT MAY WELL BE that there are many Negroes in Alabama who ought to be permitted to vote. But there are lots of people in America who are the victims of injustice, and the only way they can get justice is through the proper procedures in the courts.

The Department of Justice can, of course, go into court and demand that certain records be produced before the commission. Some of the state officials might even be held in contempt for refusing to produce the records. But, in the final analysis, the Supreme Court of the United States . . . MORE MORE MORE . . . will have to decide whether the subpoena power has been justly exercised and whether it invades the rights of the states. It's too early to condemn American citizens as law violator when they have not as yet been adjudged guilty in a trial.

The basic principle of the "separation of powers" has been in effect ever since the foundation of the republic. President Washington, when asked to supply certain records to congress, said: "It is essential to the due administration of the government that the boundaries fixed by the Constitution between the several departments should be preserved. A just regard to the Constitution and to the duty of my office under the circumstances of this case forbids the compliance with your request."

EVER SINCE that day no subpoena has ever been served on a president of the United States by Congress. Likewise, even former President Truman, after he was out of office, declined to honor a subpoena in connection with a hearing before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He claimed that it was his privilege because he had once been president. The issue never went to the courts.

The judicial branch of the federal government has refused to permit the legislative branch to encroach upon its records. No legislative committee has been able to subpoena members of the judiciary with respect to proceedings in their courts.

Certainly administration officials do not concede that they have been violating the "law of the land" by refusing to testify before congressional commissions or committees. So it is difficult to see why the judiciary of a state is said to be "defying" the "law of the land" when it insists that its judicial processes must be protected from any encroachment by Congress.

The Kremlin Clock

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON 1 (AP) — There must be a Kremlin clock that rings every year just before the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic military alliance meet in Paris. It's beginning to ring regularly.

You can see the pattern. Bong, the clock goes. Premier Nikita Khrushchev jumps up and tells the boys in charge of the propaganda section: Start pumping." It happened last year. Now it's happened again.

Last year Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was all set to fly to Paris for the NATO meeting. Then, two days before Dulles' takeoff, the Russians threw out what they must have thought a blockbuster.

In a 3,000-word letter to President Eisenhower the then Premier Nicolai Bulganin — with Khrushchev at his side — proposed a summit meeting and a ban on atomic bomb tests.

There was nothing new in it—in the way of fresh ideas—and State Department officials branded it a propaganda trick intended to disturb and maybe split the Allies before they met in Paris.

Thursday the Kremlin clock rang again, this time just a day before Dulles' scheduled takeoff for the NATO meeting in Paris Sunday.

This time the Russians tried a one-two-three punch, with Khrushchev, Moscow radio and Tass, the official Soviet news agency, all grabbing the pump handle.

The biggest and most critical problem facing the foreign ministers in Paris is the demand made by Khrushchev that the United States, Britain and France all clear their troops out of West Berlin and leave it a free city.

The West German government wants the Allies not to yield to the Soviet pressure. But the Russians since Nov. 10 have made ugly suggestions indicating they are in for a rough time if they don't pull out.

So Thursday, one day before Dulles was to fly to Paris, Tass opened up in a move clearly intended to disturb the Western foreign ministers when they meet Sunday in Paris and again, if possible, to split them.

Tass accused the West of stalling on Khrushchev's proposal about neutralizing West Berlin. It repeated that use of force in defense of the Western sectors of Berlin would be met with force by the Soviet-led Warsaw Alliance.

Radio Moscow closed in with the statement that the situation in West Berlin will have to be changed."

And Khrushchev — now indisputably the Soviet Union's No. 1 man since Bulganin has been pushed so far out of sight no one hears of him much any more—let go on his own.

He was quoted in an interview by a German newspaper in Munich as giving this warning:

If the West attempted to break through East German territory to Berlin by force, to supply their Berlin garrisons, there would be war and the use of the Soviet Union's most powerful weapons.

The trouble with the Kremlin clock is that its timing is getting obvious.

The Journey to Jesus (Chapter One)

Persians Scan Heavens For Promised Sign

EDITOR'S NOTE: Down through the centuries, one of the most fascinating chapters of the immortal Christmas Story has been the journey of the Magi. But des its appeal, most of the details of that first pilgrimage to Bethlehem have been lost in antiquity. Here is the first of five articles carefully reconstructing the inspiring story of three men who unwaveringly followed the Star on a Journey to Jesus.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

As he had done each evening or month, Melchior climbed the circular stairs of the tower atop Mt. Vaus. He reached the roof, breathing heavily. He spread his maps on the stand and rested his arms there, gazing into the eastern quarter of the heavens.

His colleagues would be there shortly. The time cycle already had entered its penultimate phase, and they awaited a sign of its completion — the supreme "fravashi" foretold of old.

It was a spring dusk in the 31st year of the reign of the Parthian King Phraates IV in Persia (6 P.C.). For the company of Rab-Mag Melchior, nature and careful computations had combined to bring about a state of acute vigilance.

They were Magi, the most renowned scholars of the age, members of the imperial order of priests, royal counselors and masters of ancient, recondite sciences that would be lost to the centuries to come.

"Guide us aright, thou living god, Ahura Mazda," Melchior lifted his bearded face as the first glints flicked the sky. "Oh, Thou Creator of Life, primeval Spirit, Thou Wise One, give light to us who seek Thy truth."

Excitement Built Up
For nearly a year, as modern astronomy has since confirmed, a startling sequence of celestial phenomena had unfolded before these mystic sages. By their logic, the occurrences were more than enough to arouse keen suspense.

But in addition, there are specific Biblical and historical intimations that they had even weightier information to alert them at the time Jesus was born, a year subsequently misrep-resented in fixing the Gregorian calendar.

All the evidence must have obsessed the elderly Melchior (one of varying names ascribed to him by early church tradition) as he and the other Magian noblemen gathered that night on their high lookout over the clear uplands of Persia

(By Courtesy of the Pierpont Morgan Library)
AS IMAGINED BY artists of the Middle Ages, the Three Wise Men bore a striking resemblance to noblemen of Europe. This woodcut was carved to illustrate John of Hildesheim's "Historia Trium Regum" (The Story of the Three Kings), published in 1484.

They wore long, white robes, tied at the waist with silken sashes. Embroidered figures of a crescent moon and the planes adorned the rims of their caps.

As darkness deepened, they spoke quietly but intently of the implications.

"An auspicious night," Melchior ambled about the platform, making sure each observer was at his assigned sector and had measuring dividers and bar. "Would that we could measure as well, my brothers, the visions of the inner eye."

To these authorities of the remote, mysterious "Zenavesta," most of which later was destroyed, knowledge came not from facts alone, but by finding in them the expression of spiritual laws — by piercing the tangle to learn the truth it signified.

They perceived a grand, Divine interlinking of all time and space, from the least particle to the cosmos. Each material appearance was relative, a mere manifestation of a basic substance all harmonized by a common, universal force.

To decipher its majestic messages, they studied the earth, water, the air — and the fiery stars.

Final Instructions
Melchior, back at his desk, gave his associates a final reminder. "Take heed, my brothers. The finger of life oft writes in smallest script." Above the Pleiades winked and Aldebaran blazed red on the forehead of the bull.

"Tomorrow, a month hence, who can know? We have applied our subtlest mathematics, and looked long into the face of the fire. But who is man to read the hour of the Omnipotent? And yet, perchance, tonight!"

By every indication, they had available to them the cryptic, messianic time-data set down by the astounding Jewish seer, Daniel, who five centuries before held powerful sway in the courts of Persian kings.

The Magi, as the land's ancestral savants, had opportunity then to grasp the enigmatic chronology for the coming of the Great One as given by the honored foreigner, Daniel, in his seventh, eighth and twelfth books.

They also could preserve his prophecies of the event: "Behold, one like the Son of Man came with the clouds of heaven... and there was given to him... glory and... everlasting dominion which shall not pass away."

Beyond this, however, other tenuous factors linked the Magi with Israel's hope of a redeemer. Far back in time, Abraham dwelt

Moreover, centuries before, the famed diviner, Balaam, son of Boer, a gentile like the Magi and also, like them, from the "mountains of the East," delivered his stunning oracle as recounted in Numbers 24:

"There shall come a star out of Jacob, and a Scepter shall rise out of Israel... He that shall have dominion..."

So the Magi, endowed with their abstruse time deductions and the intermingled prescience of the heavens. To them each turn of earthly destiny was reflected in nature — a "fravashi" — and they sought to detect it.

Three times in the past 10 months, marvelous displays (as Kepler, 1,600 years later) had paraded before their gaze. There had been conjunctions of the planets Jupiter and Saturn in the previous spring, autumn, and early winter.

Perfect Number

It had now been four months heavens. To them each turn of Magi, four was a perfect number, represented in the four basic elements. If a fourth conjunction occurred, they could only conclude some prodigious meaning.

Melchior's old yes roved with practiced familiarity among the sidereal landmarks. As Pisces wheeled above the eastern horizon, he trained his attention there. Tidings in the constellation of fishes had the noblest import.

Shortly, his arm rose and he pointed a shaking finger. "Lo! The heavens speak!" There, against the jeweled blackness, not only the great planets Jupiter and Saturn converged, but Mars, too, joining in a resplendent trigon.

Awed exclamations burst out on the rooftop and some Magians dropped to their knees. Gradually, however, they grew silent, watching the luminous solar embrace. Stillness, deep as the reaches of space, settled over them.

But then, suddenly, as if a door of a pit had opened to the sun, a new light flashed in the eastern firmament, a new star, a stella nova, a flame no astronomer, ever proved or postulated, burst into the world's night.

Its brightness washed the earth. Its rays glittered like points of a crown. It opened its sublime might to the tired and since the last spectacle. To the below and trimmed the riges of the mountains of Zagros.

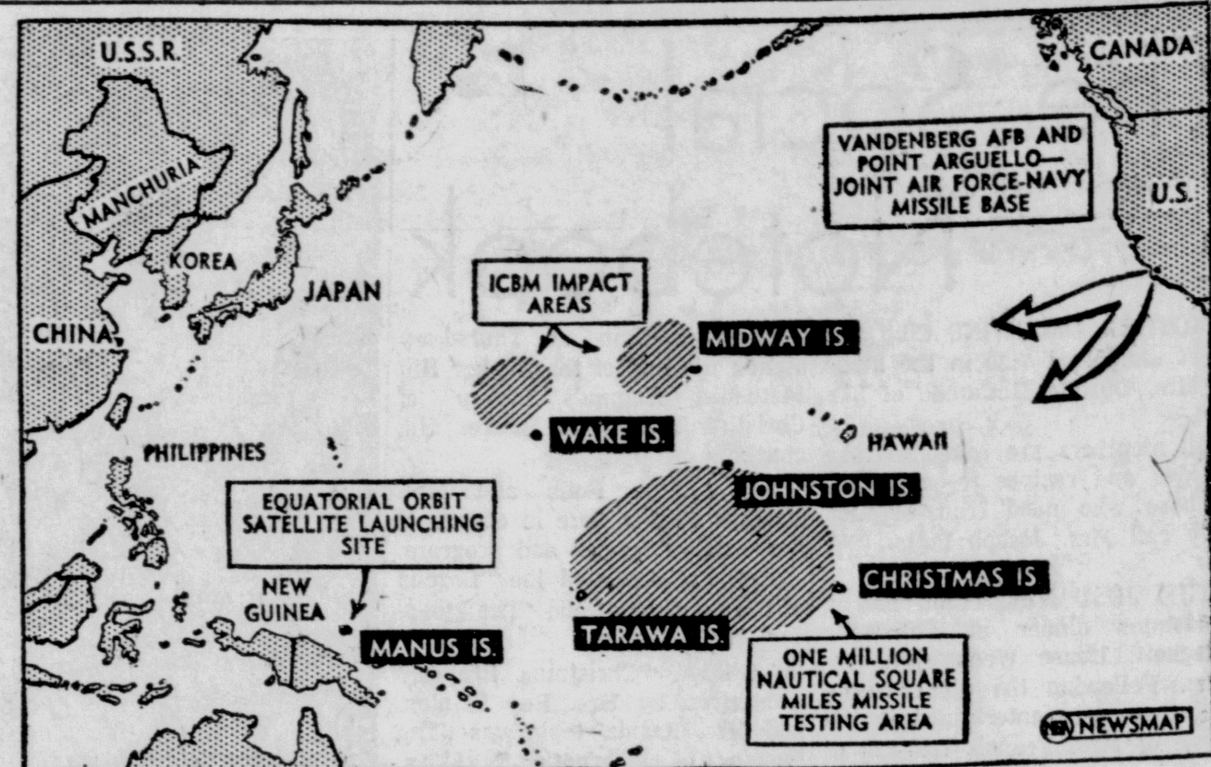

Its Nature Unknown

The Magi saw their star "in the east." There in the "lan of the Aryans," there where the mystic wisdom of the Orient mingled with a faith older than history, there in the land of the nightingale and the rose, above the high plateau of Persia, a star appeared.

No one knows its nature. No record remains of it in the astral lore of Babylon. Whatever man's instruments or research may disclose has no bearing on that star. For the Magi saw it — with their eyes and in their hearts.

"Arise... for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee..." So Isaiah had written. "And the gentiles shall come to thy light... They shall bring gold and incense; and they shall show forth the praises of the Lord."

Curbstone Comments

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a pavement Plato: Total honesty is rare in human-kind.

Philosophers may argue at what age or time the average man is truly most honest.

I have thought this problem through, and I think a man is most honest when he fights against the idea of getting out of bed in the morning to face the problems of the day.

I have read often in my lifetime of people who loved what they were doing so much that they could hardly bear to put their cheek against the pillow because tomorrow would be so exciting.

There must be people like this. But in a crowded life I have never met them. The lovers of life that I have met loved today and worried it to death—they took life as it was at the moment in their teeth.

Tomorrow was a century for others.

Certainly I admire the heroes of this world who hate the waste of sleeping and fret against the darkness that denies them the bright opportunity of tomorrow. But I am not one of them.

I am a lifelong and industrious coward myself, a penurious hoarder of now, and would like to stretch the happy leisure of the moment into an unimportant eternity.

In living you have a change of mornings.

Getting up in the morning has always seemed to me the biggest possible mistake a man can make in his lifetime. And he does it day after day, year after year.

So many mornings in a lifetime. Can you remember sleeping in an upper floor and leaving the heavy quilt-soft warmth of bed to run downstairs in your long-handled underwear and spread your bottom to the red comfort of a stove in the living room?

Or to creep shivering down alone at a cold and lonely hour to light the fire in the stove? Or go into the basement and throw coal into a reluctant furnace and coax its grudging, overnight-dampened loyalty to bright, silent flame again? Remember how strange the house looked, so silent and waiting for the family noise?

These problems of arising in the morning are still only too familiar across the land.

But in the city where the same sun wonders the morning window, and a fellow has the climate of his choice by turning a knob, it seems to me his problem of getting up is no easier.

Burglars Get $3,500 At Campbell Store

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — An estimated $3,500 plus an as yet undetermined amount of savings bonds were stolen from the Leon Dunn's clothing store in nearby Campbell early Sunday. Four guns also were missing.

LAKES' TONNAGE UP

CLEVELAND (AP) — Grain moved on the Great Lakes last month totaled 2,072,971 tons — largest November tonnage since 1954. With iron ore and coal added, last month's cargoes totaled 11,593,988 tons against 10,799,868 in November, 1957 the Lake Carriers Assn. reported. This marked the first time this year that a monthly total has surpassed the corresponding 1957 month's total, the association said. For the year the bulk shipments are 110,844,626 net tons, against 156,756,116 tons of the three commodities which were moved in 1957 to Dec. 1.

MOTHER OF TWINS Club will meet tonight at 7:30 in the home of Mrs. Durrelle McCamon of Lisbon.

All members are asked to take cookies and recipes for roll call. Those who need transportation may call Mrs. Joseph Potts.

THE JUST NINE Club had a Christmas dinner at Petrucci's Spaghetti House Wednesday evening. Following the dinner, the members were entertained in the home of Mrs. Francis Helman of S. Union Ave.

The new officers are: President, Mrs. Gilbert Everhart; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Helman.

Gifts were exchanged and games of "500" were enjoyed. Prizes went to Mrs. Everhart, Mrs. Purn Sindinger, Mrs. Helman and Mrs. Frank Preisler.

The next meeting will be Jan. 7 at the home of Mrs. Preisler of Morris St.

"UNDER THE MISTLETOE," a holiday food demonstration, was presented by Miss Janice Bethel to members of the C&C Club and their guests recently at the Ohio Gas Fuel Co.

After the demonstration, the club members went to the home of Mrs. Robert Miller of E. 9th St. to plan the Christmas party, which will be Dec. 27 at Johnny Garneau's Smorgasbord near North Lima.

New secret pals' names were chosen and prizes were awarded to Mrs. John Hrvatin and Mrs. Harold Morrow. Mrs. Hrvatin also received a gift in celebration of her birthday.

Officers of the club are: President, Mrs. Tom Fido Jr.; vice president, Mrs. Robert Berg; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Hrvatin.

A MUSIC LIBRARY for members was discussed at a recent meeting of the Junior Music Club in the home of Ed Enemark of N. Union Ave.

Also discussed were money making suggestions to defray the expenses of the library.

"Tea for Two," a trombone duet was presented by Bob Dodge and Jay Albright. The same number was played by Tom Lease and Bob Dodge.

Plans were made to go Christmas caroling Dec. 17. After the caroling, the group will return to the home of Mary Jane Matthews of Jennings Ave. for refreshments.

"EVERYWHERE, Everywhere Christmas," was the theme of the holiday program at Thursday night's meeting of the Bunker Hill Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service in Bunker Hill church.

Mrs. Ralph Fotia and Mrs. Thomas Frantz were in charge of the worship service and program. Mrs. Fotia related the "Legend of the Poinsettia" and "The Meaning of Christmas."

A poem, "Christmas Prayer," was given by Mrs. Ray Stanley, and Mrs. Frantz' topic was "The Wonder of Incarnation." Mrs. Jack Wack presented a reading, "Two Books."

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Graydon Cook and Mrs. Harley Thomas. The table was decorated in the Christmas motif, and favors were little popcorn Christmas trees.

The Jan. 8 meeting will be in the church.

The Age of The Eggbeater - - -

Here are two additions to the eggbeater family flailing the air over the United States. The Army's new Iroquois HU-1, turbine-powered, flexes its muscles, left, at Fort Worth, Tex. The 'copter is lifting 14 persons—eight on the skid gear, four in passenger seats and the pilot and copilot. The machine has exceeded 160 m.p.h. in unofficial tests and can outclimb some World War II fighter planes. Salina, Kan., auto mechanic Bob Beggs ground tests his "gyro-copter," a home-made affair, as it's hauled on a truck, right. The 20-m.p.h. wind velocity is sufficient to make the midge 'copter strain against the ropes holding to the trailer. Beggs says he'll test it thoroughly before taking off for real. Power will be supplied by the pusher propeller at the back of the machine.

11 Persons Die Over Weekend on Roads

By The Associated Press

Traffic	11
Fire	1
Miscellaneous	3
Total	15

Until Sunday, all but one of the accidental deaths recorded in The Associated Press' weekend survey were the result of traffic. The exception was a Martins Ferry man fatally burned.

A drowning, an accidental shooting and a fatal fall were the other non-traffic deaths, all occurring Sunday.

The first death of the weekend, shortly after the regular weekend survey began at 6 p.m. Friday, was the result of a good deed. A motorist who was helping to get another car out of a ditch was crushed to death between the ditched car and a wrecker.

About a third of the fatal accidents involved young people. A 6-year-old boy who drowned Sunday was the youngest. The oldest was an 88-year-old Lakewood man hit by a car Saturday.

In all, 15 persons died. No multiple-fatal accidents were noted.

The fatalities:

Friday night
Walter A. Dixon, 45, Champion (Trumbull County), crushed between a car he was helping to free from a ditch and a wrecker. Another car hit the wrecker in the accident near Champion.

Saturday
Ralph Wardlow, 21, Middletown, thrown from a car that rolled over and struck by another car in Middletown.

William J. Welsh III, 17, Hamilton, when he apparently drove through a stop sign and hit a tractor-trailer truck at the intersection of Coles Road and U. S. 25 east of Middletown.

Herbert Aikman III, 14, Celina, injured Friday night when the car he was in went off a curve in Ohio 29 east of Celina. He died Saturday.

Mrs. Isabelle Adams, 45, Columbus, when a freight train hit her car at a Columbus crossing.

William B. Van Sickle, 88, Lakeside, thrown through the windshield of a car that struck him at that suburban Cleveland community.

Stanley Boyd, 38, Akron, hit by a car as he was pouring gas into the tank of his stalled car.

Edna Keller, 68, Alliance, when the driver of a car in which she was riding apparently failed to heed a stop sign and crashed into a truck at the intersection of Ohio 44 and 173.

Fred Burch, 68, Martins Ferry, in a fire which destroyed his three-room home.

Sunday
Richard D. Pratt, 31, of Rt. 1, Cecil (Paulding County), when his car went out of control on a Paulding County road and hit a culvert.

Michael O'Dowd, 17, Hamilton, injured Saturday when he fell from a third floor window at the Summit County Home for the Aged.

Jesse L. Yonce, 44, Portsmouth, in a collision east of the Lawrence-Scioto County line in Lawrence County.

William Bartnicki, 6, Barton (Belmont County), drowned in Wheeling Creek while ice skating.

Jack Brain, 51, Rt. 4, Guilford Lake (Columbiana County), shot while cleaning his shotgun.

CHILDREN INOCULATED
LISBON — Ten first grade children were inoculated at 2 cafeteria workers at Summitville School were given tuberculosis patch tests by the County Health Department Friday, Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner, reports.

Two students were vaccinated. Children of Yellow Creek School District will be inoculated Tuesday Dr. Palmer said.

and then would formulate their notes to the Soviets.

Withdrawing From Berlin
Premier Nikita Khrushchev in the Soviet note said the Soviets were withdrawing from the four-power occupation of Berlin. He proposed that West Berlin, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain, be made a demilitarized free city. The Russians said regardless of what was worked out for West Berlin, they were giving the East Germans control of all communications within the city in six months.

The Western refusal to deal with the East Germans apparently left no alternative but force to insure access to the city if the Russians go ahead with the transfer of communication controls. The Russians have said they would constitute aggression against East Germany and that Soviet troops would go to the satellite regime's aid in accordance with the Warsaw Pact.

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano joined in the later half of the three-hour conference at the Foreign Office.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt also spent half an hour in the meeting, giving his views to the foreign ministers. Dulles told him after the meeting, "You don't need to be worried."

Today the Allies turned to trade and economic policy with a meeting of the 17-nation Organization for European Economic Cooperation. The OEEC includes all European members of the Atlantic Pact plus such neutral countries as Sweden, Switzerland and Austria.

The French recently rejected a British proposal to associate all 17 OEEC members in a free trade area. The British still are bitter over the French action, and their officials say that reprisals may have to be taken to defend the British economy. The Scandinavians and some other nations are saying the same.

Other items to be taken up during the meetings this week include: 1. France's determination for a bigger voice in the Atlantic Alliance.

2. Continental hesitation to accept American nuclear rocket bases.

3. The dangerous situation in Cyprus.

4. The fishing war in the North Atlantic, involving Icelandic and British ships.

State Board to Rule On Talbott Petition

LISBON — A hearing will be held Thursday in Columbus at 1 p.m. before the State Department of Education on the Paul Talbott petition signed by Hillcrest residents who wish to transfer the Southern Local District to Wells County District.

The County Board of Education about three months ago refused to allow the transfer, and sent it to the State Board of Education for its ruling.

Lisbon Boy In Hospital After Sledding Mishap

LISBON — Raymond "Butch" Moore, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Moore of Pritchard Ave. is in the South Side Hospital in Youngstown, after being injured on Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in a sledding accident.

He and his brother "Billy" Moore were riding down a hill between E. High and E. Chestnut Streets when their sled hit a tree.

Raymond was taken to the Youngstown Hospital where X-rays showed he had sustained contusions of vertebrae. He was placed in traction.

Billy was not injured.

Wesley Foundation Burns at Kent State

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Kent University's Wesley Foundation center was only a hollow stone shell today—its roof burned away.

Smoke awakened Mrs. Hazel Giesenjamp, housemother and only occupant of the building, when the fire started about 6:10 a. m. Sunday. She got out before the roof collapsed.

Fire Chief Fred Miller said defective wiring in a basement supply room started the blaze which did an estimated $20,000 damage to the student religious center.

Firemen worked nearly six hours to keep the flames from spreading to adjoining buildings.

In another fire Sunday an estimated $50,000 damage was caused near Medina at the Bunker Hill Inn, and near Louisville in Star County flames wrecked a barn and former feed mill.

The fire at Bunker Hill caused rerouting of traffic on busy U.S. 42 three miles north of Medina. Firemen from Medina, Brunswick, Valley City and Hickory were able to save 20-room mansion built in 1914 and only a few feet away from the Inn. Mrs. Bonita Ingram, owner of the inn and mansion, said a number of valuable antiques were destroyed in the fire that wrecked the bar, kitchen, dining room, smorgasbord room, and golf course clubhouse in the basement.

In the fire near Louisville a 190 fire pumper owned by the Louisville Fire Department and the barn it was parked in were destroyed. The building near Ohio 44, formerly housed the Stahl & Royer feed mill which closed six years ago. No damage estimate was made and the cause of the fire was not determined.

Two of the new cardinals were not in Rome and will not participate in the ceremonies this week. Joseph Bueno y Monreal, archbishop of Seville, will receive his notification and red hat from Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spanish chief of state. Fernando Cento, papal nuncio to Portugal, will get his from President Americo Tomas in Lisbon. This is by ancient accord between the Vatican and such Catholic states.

In an address in Latin, Pope John said that in increasing the membership of the Sacred College, he had in mind the great and expanding duties of its members. He said he had in mind particularly lightening the burdens of the present cardinal members of the Vatican Curia, the central administration of the church.

U.S. Undersecretary Inspecting Mid East

CAIRO (AP) — U.S. Undersecretary of State William M. Rountree left by plane today for Baghdad as all Cairo papers predicted another upheaval in Iraq.

Rountree himself faced the threat of hostile demonstrations from the powerful Iraqi Communist party.

Rountree has been touring the Middle East. He conferred at length Sunday with President Nasser.

In recent weeks tension has arisen between Arab nationalists and Communists in Iraq.

A violent campaign against the United States has been under way in Baghdad for weeks.

TV's 'Kingfish' Dies, Tuberculosis Victim

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Harry R. (Tim) Moore, 70-year-old Kingfish of the Amos'n Andy television series, will be buried next Saturday. He died Saturday of tuberculosis.

But, as colleague Freeman Gosden put it, "his comedy will carry on."

Seventy-nine T films in which Moore appeared are re-running in scores of U.S. cities.

Moore joined Gosden and Charles Correll when they converted from radio to TV. Gosden played both Amos and Kingfish in the original radio series.

The veteran Negro actor had been a jockey and professional boxer. His last camera appearance was in 1953. Recently he had been a master of ceremonies at a Los Angeles

Santa and the ELF BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Esteban found the bottle of gas with which the professor plans to kill the fairies. But the professor trapped him and opened a trap door beneath him. As Esteban falls he tosses the bottle to the professor to keep it from breaking.

(Chapter Ten)

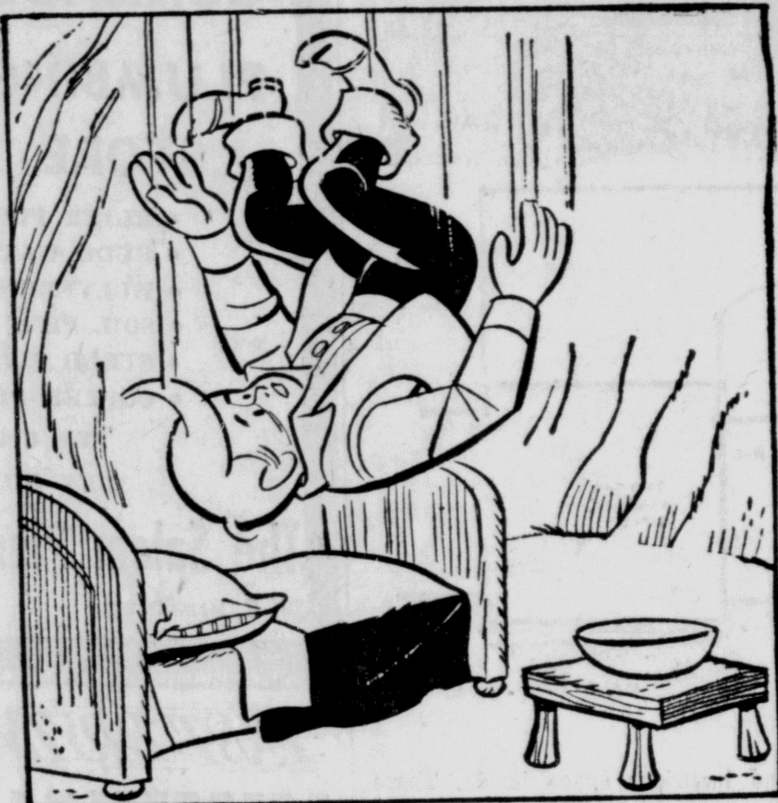

The MOLE HOLE

Down, down, down went Esteban in a hole that seemed to have no bottom. Faster and faster he went. He thought that when he landed he would surely be crushed.

Suddenly he did land—right on his head! But he wasn't even hurt. For he landed on a bed. It was a teeny bed with fat white pillows and a bright red blanket. On a table by the bed stood a tiny lamp glowing brightly.

There was a tiny rocking chair nearby and a wash stand with a tiny wash bowl on it.

On a shelf there were some tiny books. Esteban picked up one of the books. It was called Down, down Esteban fell into a strange weeny room.

"Digging for Fun."

Esteban shook his head in puzzlement. Could he possibly have gone right through the earth and yet amenable to surgery, of course. But each child who has a congenital lesion of the heart has to be most carefully studied on an individual basis, first to make a diagnosis and from this to decide whether or not surgery stands a good chance of being successful.

HELD IN FATAL SHOOTING

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Green County Sheriff's deputies are holding John C. Smith, 60, in connection with the fatal shooting of Charles Oliver, 45. Both men lived in the Wright View Heights suburb of Fairborn, scene of the shooting Sunday. Deputies said Smith told of being threatened by Oliver, but it was not immediately determined why.

FORMER SCHOOL HEAD DIES

CLEVELAND (AP) — Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Charles Henry Lake, 79, who was superintendent of Cleveland's public schools from 1933 to 1947. He died at his home in Shaker Heights Sunday. A native of Granville, Lake taught in Columbus and was principal at Hamilton High School before coming here in 1916.

landed on the other side of the world? But why would people there live in such small houses?

Just then he heard a scraping noise. The scraping grew louder until finally there was a great big thump and a hole was punched right through the wall.

Through the hole bounced a fat little mole with a top hat on his head and a brief case in his paw. Great furry eyebrows hung over his tiny eyes and he wore glasses that were two inches thick.

He peered at Esteban in astonishment. "Gracious! I didn't expect guests!"

HASTILY HE TOOK off his hat and began to bustle around the room, straightening the bed and dusting the books.

"Just a minute and we'll be cleaned up here. I'm sorry I wasn't here when you arrived, but I only moved in a few days ago and I've been terribly busy on the new roads, you know. Or perhaps you didn't know. Well, anyway, I'm home now and very glad to see you."

At this he stopped chattering and peered at Esteban through his two inch glasses. "By the way, who are you anyway?"

Esteban took a big breath. "I'm an elf," he began.

"Good gracious!" said the mole. "You're awfully big for an elf. I don't suppose I've ever seen such a big elf."

"Well," explained Esteban. "I'm not an elf anymore. You see, I was an elf but I did everything wrong and made trouble for everyone so the Queen Fairy took away my wings and I'm a boy now. But I'm going to be an elf again if I'm a good boy."

THE MOLE SHOOK his head in wonder at such a story. "But tell me, he asked. 'How did you get into my bedroom?'"

"The professor tricked me!" cried Esteban. "Now he has the bottle and I'll never be able to get it again!"

The mole took off his glasses and wearily rubbed his eyes. "I wish you'd just start at the beginning and tell me the whole story," he begged.

So Esteban told how Charlotte's mother had been put under a spell by the Hangdog Hag and could never wake again. How Charlotte's father, in order to destroy the witch, had made a gas that would kill not only the Hag but all fairies an elves in the world.

"And I must get to Santa Claus for help, finished Esteban. 'But how will I ever get there?'"

The fat little mole sat in his rocking chair and rocked busily.

By and by, he smiled happily and bounced from the chair.

"The Snuke!" he cried.

"What?" said Esteban.

"The Snuke," said the mole.

"The Snuke," said the mole.

"The Snuke will get you there!"

Guarding Your Health

Strides In Heart Surgery

Among the most remarkable advances in medicine in recent years are the developments in heart surgery. Thanks to the extraordinary ingenuity of many patient research workers and their experiments on dogs, it is now possible to save the lives of many children and adults who were formerly doomed to an early grave.

Nearly everyone is familiar with the term "blue baby," which is given to pitiful infants who are born with bluish color of the skin resulting from lack of oxygen in the blood.

II. BLUE BABIES The deficiency of oxygen is the result of a malformed heart or of the large blood vessels lying near it. Such defective structures allow the blood from the veins, containing only small amounts of oxygen laden blood, to mix with blood from the arteries. The result is that the tissues do not receive enough life-giving oxygen.

Several kinds of malformations of the heart permit this mixing of oxygen-containing and oxygen-free blood. For several of these inborn defects of structure, it is now possible to operate successfully.

In one treatable form, the passageway between the heart and one of the large blood vessels which should normally close before birth fails to do so. This is called a patent or open ductus arteriosus.

THIS OPENING can now be closed by delicate heart surgery. The operation has already been done hundreds of times with great success.

RECENTLY a letter has come from Mrs. M., who asks what hap-

Expert Offers Some Good Advice

Here's How to Put on Tree Lights

No sure way has yet been invented to prevent the pre-Christmas hassle as to how to light the Christmas tree, but you can simplify things down considerably if you follow advice of lighting experts. (Better clip and save this)

MINIMUM lighting, to outline your tree, calls for one Christmas lamp per square foot. Anything less results in a Scrooge-type creation.

At the same time, overlighting results only in a multicolored glare and blots out the effect you're trying to achieve.

A FORMULA to help you in determining minimum and maximum lighting requirements has been worked out by the manufacturers of one of the world's leading lines of Christmas lamps.

Here it is!

Minimum lighting: multiply tree's height by branch spread at bottom of tree. Multiply that figure by 1.5. The total is the number of lights indicated.

For example: a six-foot tree with a four-foot branch spread gives "24" as the first number. Multiplied by 1.5, you have "36" as your guide number.

Maximum lighting: double the guide number. For the example given, maximum lighting would call for 72 lamps.

Another problem facing the handyman is placement of the lights. The better way, say the decorators, is to string from the top, down, and outward from the trunk to the ends of the branches.

DECORATE WITH current off, of course, and add ornaments AFTER the light strings are in place. Nature is somewhat less than cooperative in the matter of supplying symmetrical trees.

If your tree is short and stocky, hang lights from the top in straight lines. Their glow will help to give the illusion of height. The same trick is good for camouflaging tall trees that aren't symmetrical.

If the tree is thin, two sets of lights, spiraled downward, one clockwise, one counterclockwise, fill out the tree amazingly.

For tall, graceful beauties, lights strung horizontally in loops or drapes effects further beautify the tree.

You can, too, add beauty to a tree with spot or floodlights of the type that screw into a standard lamp socket.

THE SAME RULES apply, generally, for outdoor trees. Exception: Trees over 10 feet tall benefit more from lights hung straight down, top-to-bottom, on outside branches.

Devotions were conducted by Charles Ellyson when the Friendship Class of the Friends Church was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ellyson on Monday.

The Bible, which was purchased by the class for the Brewster Friends Church, has arrived and will be delivered by the project committee which is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Shreve and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Miles.

It was decided for the class to donate $50 for the laying of a cement floor in the new addition of the church.

It was also decided to be represented as a group at the prayer meeting Dec. 18.

Christmas baskets will be filled by the class for worthy families. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ellyson, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Steer and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Steer were in charge of the games and served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hileman will receive the group Dec. 12 and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellyson will be co-hosts.

THIS ONE-STORY RANCH offers both an interesting exterior and luxurious space inside. There are seven rooms, including a family room one step lower than the remainder of the house. This family room is separated from the kitchen by only an iron railing, making one huge area out of dinette, kitchen and family room. The plan is HA61-Y, by Architect Herman H. York, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 32, N.Y. It has 1,583 sq. ft. of habitable area, with 207 sq. ft. in the family room and 471 in the garage.

ary Auxiliary of the Friends Church was entertained Tuesday by Mrs. Lee Todd with Mrs. Wilford Hoopes, associate hostess.

The devotions and program were in charge of Mrs. Clifford Kerr, who read a letter from Mrs. Howard Moore, a missionary in Formosa.

Christmas songs were sung by Mrs. Melvin Hoffman with a guitar accompaniment. The group worked on making stuffed toys for the nursery classes of the church and brought food for a Christmas basket.

One dollar will be brought by each member to help in building a village church in Formosa when Mrs. Robert Bell will entertain the group Jan. 13.

A lunch was served by the hostesses with 17 in attendance.

THE EVENING was spent in playing "Trippi" when the Damascus Debts Club members were entertained by Mrs. Curt Linke recently. Prizes were awarded Mrs. Elden Morckel or "high" and to Mrs. Paul Buttermore Jr. for "low."

Christmas gifts were exchanged in a grab bag and lunch, with Christmas appointments was served at the table.

Mrs. Elden Morckel will entertain the group Jan. 12. The SOS Club will be entertained by Mrs. Ruth Barber Wednesday evening.

The Columbiana County Cultivators Advisory Council of the Farm Bureau Association have canceled the December meeting and will be entertained Jan. 16 by Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Hoopes.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Steer entertained Mr. and Mrs. Edwin N. Steer of Valley and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buttermore Jr. at dinner on Sunday. The event honored Mrs. Edwin N. Steer in observance of her birthday anniversary.

A decorated cake was a feature of the dinner. Gifts were presented the honoree and visiting was the pastime.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Schaffner of Cincinnati were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Steer and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buttermore Jr.

The members of the E double T club will exchange Christmas gifts at a regular meeting at The Timberlans in Salem Dec. 19.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

In a new movie starring gentleman Jim Hoffa you will find Congressman James Roosevelt prominent among the supporting cast of characters.

Victor Riesel

Jim Roosevelt, picture producer of old who was never cast in his own films, plays himself in this "hard sell" celluloid venture called "Trial by Committee."

The committee, of course, is Sen. John McClellan's hardy band of men. The trials are those of Jimmy Hoffa — and somebody ought to give the film editor a gold truck wheel as a prize. For in these glued up clips of the Bob Kennedy crusade, Jim Hoffa looks good.

This is a 33-minute "pix" which Variety's critics may not get around to previewing, for it is for the truck trade.

The opus was produced by the Missouri-Kansas Conference of Teamsters. To add real dignity to it, they asked James Roosevelt to say a few well chosen words about what the boys would like to label inquisition by inquiry.

Mr. Roosevelt, a good friend of Hoffa's gray-matter eminence, Harold Gibbons, agreed to get himself sound tracked.

THE CONGRESSMAN'S Washington office reports that Mr. Roosevelt did this in October, just before the political re-election campaign began in his Los Angeles County district.

Twin billing with Jim Hoffa is a matter of taste. Apparently James Roosevelt did not find it distasteful.

If Mr. Roosevelt did not intend to give the impression that he was joining forces with Hoffa in a propaganda assault on a congressional colleague — and one in his own party at that — then Jim Roosevelt learned little from his days at the Goldwyn studios or from his own Globe Productions. Take it in context. It's not what

Mr. Roosevelt says, it's where he says it.

He hits at congressional committees which permit public testimony against individuals without giving the accused the right of cross-examination.

Congressional committees should only conduct hearings to obtain information for legislation, he says. They should not serve as judges and juries of witnesses, Mr. Roosevelt says in the film's concluding sequence. Before that there are scenes starring Gibbons and Hoffa.

THIS IS NOT the first time that James Roosevelt has appeared for the Teamsters. On Jan. 27, 1957, the congressman spoke before the 14th Annual Shop Conference of Gibbons' Local 688 in St. Louis.

His speech is now in our permanent literature as one booklet in what the Teamsters call the "Labor in Mid-America" series. This is published by the St. Louis Joint Council of Teamsters.

Mr. Roosevelt has apparently not lost any of the daring of his Carlson's Raiders Marine days. He is the first national legislator to cooperate publicly with the Teamsters.

Hoffa and company need many such prominent friends badly at this moment. National respectability is the objective of the Teamsters' expensive new public relations drive — of which the film is only one colorful facet.

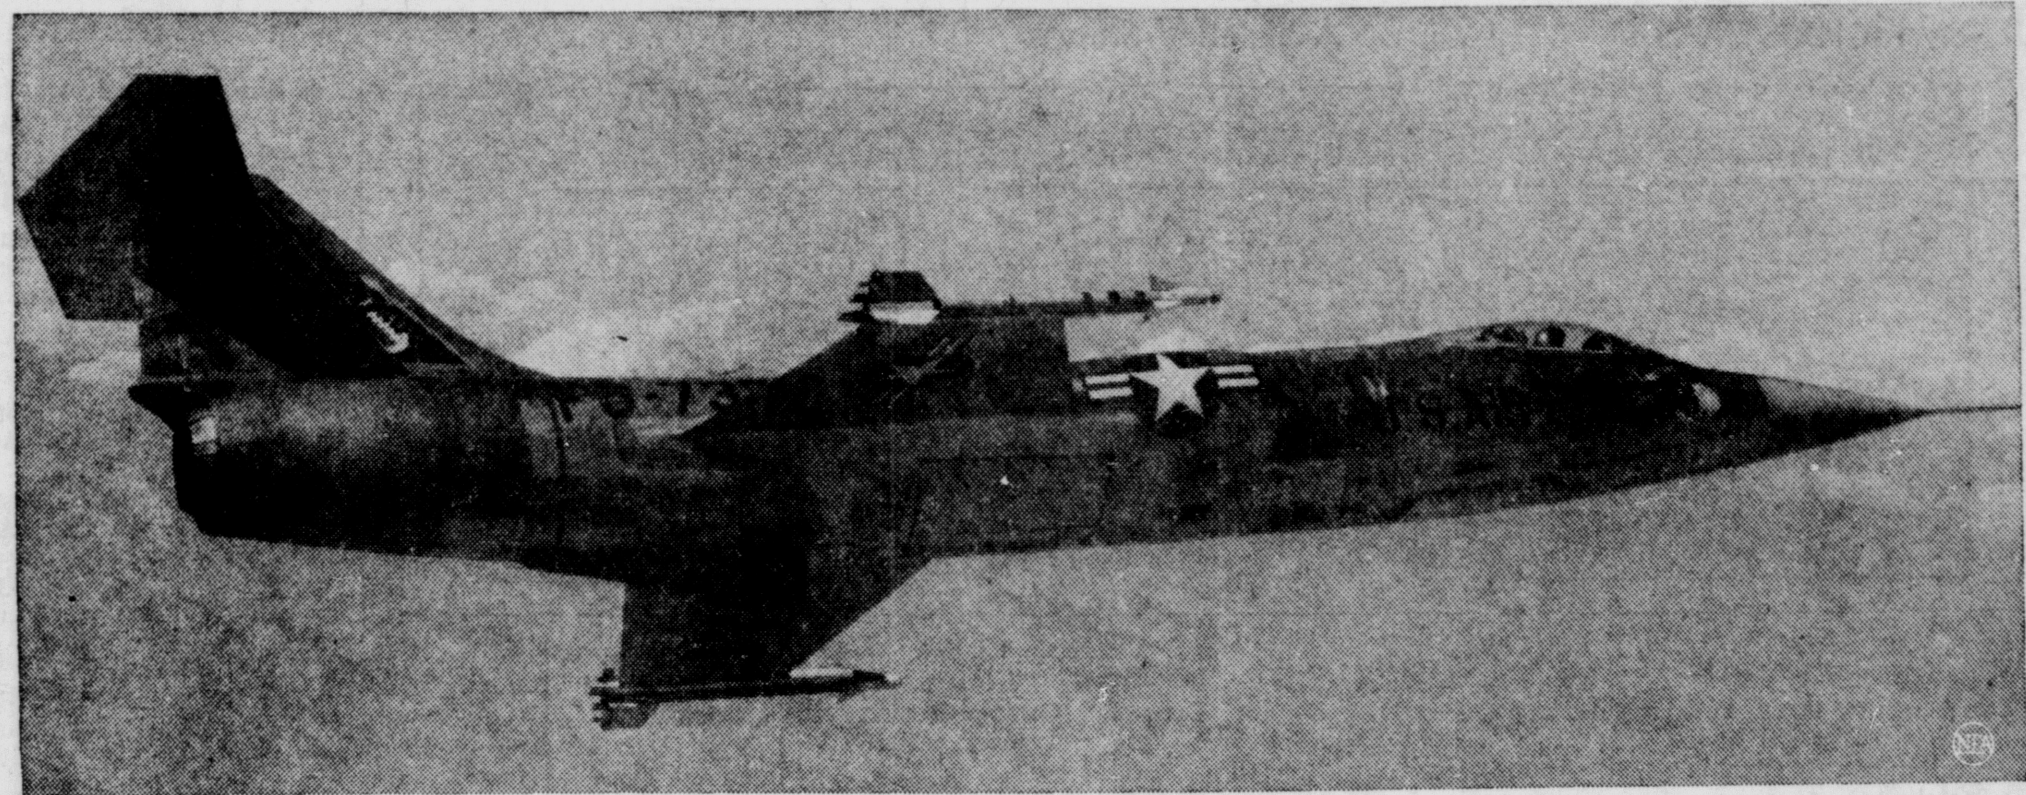

What makes Mr. Roosevelt's screen adventure even more daring is the fact that he went before the Teamster cameras just before election when he was working closely with the leaders of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education.

Whether he likes it or not, James Roosevelt and his words will be the wallowing argument at many Teamster rallies dedicated to the demise of the McClellan committee.

There are now three master prints of "Trial by Committee," soon to be turned out by the score and shown across the land.

Salem to Seek 3rd In Row At E. Palestine Tuesday

Locals To Face Scrappy Outfit

Bulldogs Paced by Knight's Scoring

Salem's rusty but potentially strong basketball Quakers will find no Christmas present awaiting them Tuesday night when they travel to East Palestine to meet Don Hinten's scrappy Bulldogs.

Hinten's team owns a 2-1 record to date and are paced by the prolific scoring of 5-10 senior Jim Knight. This cager has scored 66 points so far in three games for an average of 22.0.

Knight is one of three letter returning this season for Palestine. The others are 5-9 senior Rich Bolon and 5-6 senior Willis Woods.

THESE THREE are expected to start for the Bulldogs while the Ln 6-3.

Two remaining posts will go to either of the following four men, Rich Wellendorf, 5-10; Roy Reesh, 5-11; John Sinsley, 5-11 and Dale Lane 6-3.

Other bench strength for Salem's foe lies in 6-3 Chuck Bruno, 6-0 Chuck Robinson and 6-0 Dick Libert.

Palestine beat Canfield 64-59 in their opener, with Knight caging 32 markers. Against Youngstown Ramen in a 47-38 defeat Knight collected 19. Just last Friday in the Bulldogs' 59-52 win over Boardman Knight rimmed 15.

Palestine lacks any great height but makes up for it in aggressiveness and all around hustle.

LAST YEAR here Salem had to pull the game out in the final minute 62-61 on a field goal by Jim Meissner, now at Wooster College.

Since 1932 the clubs have battled 25 times with Salem holding an overwhelming margin of 21-4.

The last time the Bulldogs chewed up the Quakers was in 1953 by the score of 56-50.

Salem had a close game on their hand for three full quarters against Columbiana last Friday. They entered the final period ahead 48-41. However, they came on strong in the last eight minutes to gain 69-49 win.

SALEM'S OFFENSIVE load in their two straight wins has been by southpaw shooting Woody Deitch. He has pocketed 36 markers and the Bulldogs will find him a hard man to stop.

If they do, they still will have to contend with Dan Krichbaum, Salem's playmaker and floor general, who has tallied 33 in two games.

Quaker Mentor John Cabas will probably string along with 6-1 Deitch, 5-9 Krichbaum and 6-4 Clyde Marks, 6-4 Lou Slaby and 5-10 Dave Hunter against Palestine.

Supplementing this quintet is Salem's "sixth starter" or "fifth and one-half man," 6-1 Jim Lewald. Cabas utilizes these six men to the utmost in arriving at five men who jell the best.

WORLD BOWLING CHAMPS—Ed Lubanski of Detroit, Mich., and Charlotte Grubic, of Steelton, Pa., exchange congratulations after winning the men's and women's divisions of the World's Individual Match Game Bowling championships in Detroit. Lubanski, winning easily, pocketed $5,000 in prize money, while Miss Grubic's purse was $2,500.

New York Field Goal Edges Browns 13-10 to Force Sunday Playoff Tilt

NEW YORK (AP)—A field goal through the snow by a fellow who wasn't expected to play... the keen eyes of a battleworn Texan... and what everybody thought was a boner by football's master coach.

They added up today to a bonus for National Football League fans, next Sunday's playoff between the plucky New York Giants and the mighty Cleveland Browns for the Eastern Conference championship.

The two arch rivals tied for the regular season championship with 9-3 records Sunday as Texan Kyle Rote set up touchdown with 10 minutes left, and hobbled Pat Summerall booted a 49-yard field goal with two minutes remaining to give New York a 13-10 victory. A tie would have given Cleveland the title.

The winner of next Sunday's playoff will play host to the Western championship Baltimore Colts (Dec. 28 in the pro title game.

The other NFL clubs have completed their seasons. Baltimore lost 21-12 to San Francisco Sunday.

Los Angeles and the Chicago Bears tied for second in the West with 8-4 marks as the Rams closed out with a 34-20 decision over Green Bay and the Bears defeated the Detroit Lions 21-16. Washington blanked Philadelphia 20-0 in Sunday's other game. Pittsburgh, No. 3 in the East, finished Saturday with a 38-21 victory over the Chicago Cards.

It's doubtful the Giants would be still alive, if it hadn't been for a call by Paul Brown, the coach of pro football's greatest organization.

Leading 10-3 midway in the third period, the Browns drove to the New York 13 behind the great Jimmy Brown—who gained 148 yards in 26 rushes. With fourth down and five to go, Lou (The toe) Groza stepped back to the 20 for his fourth field goal try of the game. He had missed twice, hit once—from the 22.

But instead of kicking, Brown had called for a fake. Bobby Freeman took the snap from center, jumped up and took off around left end. He ran full into Giants' linebacker Harland Sware, who threw him for an eight-yard loss.

After an exchange of kicks and a Milt Plum fumble, the Giants' Frank Gifford fired a 39-yard pass to Rote to the Cleveland 6 on a play Rote called when he spotted a weakness in the Browns' pass defense. A running play lost a yard before Gifford passed to Bob Schnelker in the end zone for a touchdown. Summerall's conversion made it 10-10.

Four minutes later, the Giants drove from their 30 to Cleveland's 25. On fourth down, and with 4½ minutes remaining, Summerall missed a field goal from the 33. It looked as though the comeback had been nailed, but two minutes later the Browns' Dick Deschaine, soundly rushed by the Giants' defense, got off a wobbly 22-yard kick that went out of bounds on the Cleveland 43.

Three passes went awry before Summerall sent his booming field goal soaring through the snow and over the uprights. Two minutes and seven seconds showed on the clock.

San Francisco made it a fond farewell for retiring Coach Frankie Albert with veteran quarterback Y. A. Tittle engineering three touchdown drives. J. D. Smith booted for two second half TDs at the end of long 49ers drives.

The Colts only touchdown came on a Johnny Unitas to Jim Mutscheller pass which carried 38 yards late in the final quarter. It was the 29th consecutive game in which Unitas had tossed for a touchdown, padding his NFL record.

Green Bay made it a struggle for the Rams and only a brilliant passing foray by Billy Wade brought Los Angeles the victory. Wade pitched scoring strikes to Del Shofner and Jon Arnett for 43 and 75 yards.

The Bears scored twice in the final quarter against the Lions, who had a 16-7 third period lead. With three minutes remaining, Willie Galimore rambled 36 yards for the clinching TD.

The Eagle shutout, first for Washington since 1955, also boosted the Skins into fourth place in the East. Eddie LeBaron, battling for the league's passing title unofficially clinched it when he shot a 71-yarder to Bill Anderson for a last quarter score.

Greenford's Bobcats racked up their initial win of the season Saturday night at home by defeating North Lima 60-55. The winners had to come from behind in the second frame to do so. They trailed 18-12 at the quarter but led 33-31 at the half.

Clyde Shoff with 16 led Greenford while Dick Dillon had 11 for the losers. Greenford's JVs won 43-32.

IN FOUR OTHER district games Saturday Goshen won over Lisbon 67-60, United downed Leetonia 52-39, Canfield ripped Austintown Fitch 74-56, and Springfield local routed Western Reserve 74-43. Goshen's win over Lisbon was the 3rd in 4 games. Lisbon has now lost two in a row.

Rory Calhoun Meets Jones In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—When Rory Calhoun battles Ralph (Tiger) Jones in a 10-round middleweight scrap tonight both fighters will be working for a match with a ring side spectator—Carmen Basilio.

Basilio, former welterweight and middleweight champion, has been offered $25,000 to meet the winner of the Calhoun-Jones fight. The offer comes from Cleveland promoter Larry Atkins, who promoted tonight's charity affair sponsored by the Cleveland News toyshop fund for needy children.

"Basilio must fight someone to keep active," Atkins said and added:

"It doesn't look as if Sugar Ray Robinson is interested in fighting. Carmen and his managers said they'd be at ringside tonight to look over Calhoun and Jones."

The 24-year-old Calhoun from White Plains, N. Y., is a 7-5 favorite in tonight's meeting although Jones whipped him last month in a freewheeling match at Madison Square Garden. The 30-year-old Tiger won a unanimous decision when the referee took a round away from Calhoun for a low blow.

Tonight's battle should be as fought and closely matched as the Madison Square garden fight.

"In that fight," Jones said, "I thought Calhoun would be coming to me. He didn't."

"I don't know how I'll fight tonight," Jones added, "it depends on Calhoun. I'll probably fight the same kind of fight I did before."

The following preliminary bouts are scheduled:

Lamar Clark, Cedar City, Utah vs. Johnny Hobart, Niles, Ariz. Adams and Allen Hedge, both of Detroit, four rounds with each, heavyweight.

Solomon Boysaw, Cleveland vs. Jay Fullmer, West Jordan, Utah, eight rounds, 140 pounds.

Don Fuller, West Jordan, Utah vs. Roscoe Shamblin, Youngstown, six rounds, middleweight.

Cecil Shorts, Cleveland, vs. Herb Nichols, Detroit, six rounds, welter weight.

Alonzo Johnson Pittsburgh, vs. Rudy Williams, White Plains, N. Y., six rounds, 147 pounds.

Santa Monica Wins 30-12 In Junior Bowl

From the 10th best high school football club in Ohio to a team that won the 1958 Junior Rose Bowl is the story of Salem's Henry Maxim and Larry Phillips.

Last season both local gridders were on a Quaker team that posted a 9-1 record and answered to only nine other teams in the state.

Today, they are members of the Santa Monica (Cal.) City College team that Saturday defeated Northeastern Oklahoma A&M 30-12 in the Junior Rose Bowl game in Pasadena.

It was the unbeaten Corsairs' 10th straight win of the season and the victory snapped Oklahoma's 18-game winning string.

A crowd of almost 51,000 saw the Corsairs score 16 points in the final period to whip the Golden Norsemen after being held to a 14-12 lead after three frames.

Maxim, a second string fullback and Phillips, a second team defensive man, both played a big role in their team's win.

Bill Paulinn Holds Own As Spartan Frosh

Bill Pauline, the leading scorer on Salem's 1957-58 undefeated high school basketball team, is now one of the stellar performers on the Michigan State University freshman cage team.

At 6-5 in height, the former Quaker star is the third tallest man on the Spartans' frosh squad.

In two games thus far against MSU campus student teams, Pauline has scored 18 and 5 points, respectively.

Competition for MSU freshmen is limited to games against campus squads.

Bob Stevens, assistant coach at Michigan State, reports that Pauline is "coming along well" at a forward position.

Fight Result.

Bucks to Appear In Tournament

Three of Nation's Top Teams Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State will be rubbing elbows with some top-ranked basketball teams next weekend when the Buckeyes journey to Lexington for the University of Kentucky Invitational.

Coach Fred Taylor's youthful quintet, fresh from its first victory of the season, will be moving in fast company.

The Buckeyes must tangle with unbeaten Kentucky Friday night in a first round contest. If Ohio survives this skirmish, then its foe Saturday night will be the winner of the West Virginia-Oklahoma State game.

While the schedule ahead appears uninviting, Ohio was feeling better about things today after whipping Butler Saturday, 81-69. Larry Huston hit for 25 points and the Buckeyes shot a rousing 479 from the field to win handily. Earlier losses were to Pitt and St. Louis.

In other action last weekend, Ohio's "Big Three"—Cincinnati, Xavier and Dayton, kept their clean records intact.

The Bearcats, ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, turned back Marshall, 106-86, behind all-America Oscar Robertson's 42-point show. It was Cincinnati's third straight win.

Xavier, last year's NIT titlist, ran its victory streak to four with an 80-58 romp over Detroit as Joe Vilano and Hank Stein combined for 45 points.

Dayton had to turn on the steam late in the game to whip Stetson (Fla.) 66-53 for its fourth straight.

In some other big ones, Toledo upset Miami 81-63, to grab first place in the Mid-American Conference; DePaul's late rally nosed out Bowling Green, 73-70; Steubenville topped its 29th straight win trouncing Wabash, 97-58; Akron stopped Youngstown's winning streak at three with a 79-66 triumph and Ohio U. remained unbeaten with a 101-83 decision over Southern Illinois.

Ten Buckeye colleges are unbeaten in action with Defiance and Steubenville, both 6-0, leading the pack. Heidelberg, Kenyon, Otterbein, Baldwin Wallace and Central State have yet to win.

Ohio teams have won 33 and lost 28 in interstate play, having scored 4,503 points against 4,344.

In some top games this week, Miami hosts Marshall Tuesday and Toledo is at home for Western Michigan Wednesday in Mid-American Conference contests; Ohio U. travels to Niagara Thursday; Xavier meets strong Seattle at home Friday.

Saturday, Cincinnati goes to St. Louis for the Missouri Valley Conference opener; Dayton hosts Eastern Kentucky and Miami meets Pitt at Oxford.

Brown Angry Over 'Incomplete' Pass

NEW YORK (AP)—"There isn't a man in this room who doesn't think Frank Gifford fumbled that ball," Coach Paul E. Brown said in the Cleveland dressing room after Sunday's 13-10 loss to the New York Giants.

"I thought he made the catch, was hit and fumbled it. Just as simple as that," Brown went on.

The fourth-quarter play Brown meant was a third-down pass starting on the Cleveland 42. Chuck Conerly fired to Gifford who ran into Galen Fiss and dropped the ball, which Walt Michaels of the Browns picked up and started to carry toward the New York goal.

After a moment's hesitation head linesman Charley Berry waved an incomplete pass, and on the next and last down Pat Sumrell booted the game-winning 49-yard field goal.

"The officials just stood there," Brown said. "No one wanted to call the play. Finally, Berry made the decision. I told him after the game I thought he missed it."

Questions and Answers

Q — In what country did the game of shuffleboard originate?
A — There are indications that it came from Great Britain about the 13th century, where it was known as "shove groat" and "slide groat." The groat was an English coin worth fourpence. The trick was to shove the coin nearest a goal line.

Q — How can a spider be distinguished from an insect?
A — A spider has four pairs of legs; the insect has only three.

Q — How did the "horse latitudes" a region noted for its calms get its name?
A — One theory is that sailing ships carrying horses to the New World might, when becalmed, be forced to cast some of the horses overboard to lighten the vessel and breeze might be stirring.

Legion At Columbiana To Form Drill Team

COLUMBIANA — A meeting of members interested in organizing a drill team for parades and other ceremonial functions has been called for Tuesday, Jan. 6, by American Legion Post 290. Robert Cope will serve as drillmaster. Kindergarten Mothers Club will convene at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Dixon School. The evening will be spent in making favors for the annual classroom Christmas parties at the school. Each member is asked to take a large needle and pair of scissors.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Kenneth Richard Reash, Mrs. Dwayne Allison, Mrs. John McGeehen and Mrs. Edmund Hiner. Mrs. H. J. Scheidmantle will give the Christmas story when Columbiana Garden Club members meet at 1 p.m. Tuesday for a Christmas luncheon at Westminster Hall of the Presbyterian Church.

Officers will be installed during the business session. The committee includes Mrs. Ralph Heck, Mrs. Robert Powers, Mrs. William Arn and Mrs. Scheidmantle.

TRIPLE M CLASS of the Presbyterian Church will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the church to decorate the Christmas tree for the children's department. A business meeting will follow at 8:30 p.m. at the manse.

Rev. Donald J. Voelm, pastor of Grace United Church, will speak at the Rotary Club meeting this evening at Valley Golf Club. His topic will be, "What Are You Going To Do With the Baby?" Rev. W. S. Longworth is program chairman.

A Christmas party and covered dinner will be staged by the Clipper Auxiliary, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the F.O.E. home. A gift exchange is scheduled.

COLUMBIANA CATHOLIC Women's Guild has seated the following slate of officers for 1959: Mrs. Sheldon Franket, president; Mrs. Clyde Richardson Jr., vice president; Mrs. Gladys Miller, treasurer; Mrs. John Saunders, secretary; and Mrs. George Huk, program chairman. Mrs. D. James Gaughan is retiring president.

Two Motorists Fined $30 by Lisbon Mayor

LISBON — Two motorists were fined a total of $30 and costs Sunday by Mayor John Todd for traffic violations.

Sara M. Morgan, 71, of E. Chestnut St. was fined $10 for failing to stop within the assured clear distance ahead after her auto struck the rear of a stopped school bus on Rt. 45, north of Lisbon, Friday afternoon.

Frank Arcuri, 26, of Warren was fined $20 for speeding.

Both were cited by the state highway patrol.

FREEZES TO DEATH

HUNTER, Utah (AP) — M. B. Peterson stepped into the frigid dawn outside his home and found his 2-year-old son Zachary frozen to death on the lawn. The family was unaware the boy had left the house. The temperature had dipped to 22 degrees during the night.

HEART AILMENT FATAL. LEXINGTON PARK, Md. (AP) — A heart ailment apparently caused the death of William H. Melvin, 46, of (616 Temple St.) Washington Court House, Ohio, in the Lexington Park Hotel. Melvin, senior representative of North American Aviation, was found by his roommate, Bob Stonecipher, another company representative, Sunday.
